

Greetings!

Donations from organizations like yours, which use Perl and Raku, allow The Perl Foundation (TPF) to support and promote Perl initiatives around the world.

We want to help you stay competitive by maintaining and developing your Perl codebase, and keeping your developers educated, informed and up to date.

TPF supports this through numerous activities which require significant funding, including:

- conferences;
- grants to fund development and intern programmes;
- a jobs site (<http://jobs.perl.org/>); and
- libraries - a Comprehensive Perl Archive Network (<http://cpan.org>, and the more advanced <http://metacpan.org>).

Sponsor recognition ranges from listing your organization's name on our website, up to major recognition at TPC conferences. Our last conference was attended virtually by 500 developers around the globe.

More information is at the TPF website (<https://www.perlfoundation.org/>), where you can also find links to the online community Perlmonks (<https://perlmonks.org/>) and learn about the local user groups such as Perlmongers, at (<http://www.pm.org/>) which are, active in many cities around the world.

If you use Perl and are able to sponsor our organization, please contact me for further information. We are grateful for your consideration.

Thanks!
